

GENERAL INTERNAL MEDICINE

Georgian Bay General Hospital (GBGH) in Midland requires locum General Internal Medicine specialists to staff the General Medicine consultation service, GIM Stress Test Clinic, and Level 3 Basic Intensive Care Unit. A focus on critical care medicine would be appreciated. The locum may lead to a full-time opportunity.

GBGH is located in the southern Georgian Bay community of Midland (90 minutes north of Toronto), and serves a catchment area of over 55,000 annual residents and summer population of 200,000.

We are considered the gateway to the world famous 30,000 islands of Georgian Bay. This four-season community embraces a Georgian Bay lifestyle of summer activities such as boating, sailing, hiking, and golf with winter sports such as cross-country and downhill skiing, snowshoeing, snowmobiling, hockey and curling.

Currently, we have three General Internists, four General Surgeons, an Ophthalmologist, four-member GP / Anesthesia Group, and various visiting specialists from Urology to Orthopedic Surgery. Our 24/7 digital imaging suite includes X-Ray, Ultrasound, and (new) CT Scanner. We also have an eight-bed ICU, Ambulatory Care, Laboratory, Dialysis, Geriatric and Rehabilitation services. As well, Telehealth video conferencing services are available for consultation and education.

We are an extremely active rural academic training site. Our community and hospital are affiliated with the University of Toronto, as home to the U of T Rural Family Medicine program. We are also a partner with the Northern Ontario School of Medicine, as host of the Comprehensive Community Clerkship program. We also have additional clerks, medical students and resident electives through the Rural Ontario Medical Program.
